

Basilian Fathers at St. Thomas More College
1936-2011

Anglin, Gerald F.	Mallon, T. Greg
Beaune, George	Marceau, William
Black, J. Bernard	McCarthy, Don
Boyd, J. Ian	McCorkell, Edmund, J.
Burns, Francis L.	McGahey, Joseph E.
Callaghan, John F.	McLeod, Don
Callam, Daniel D.	McReavy, John (Jack) J.
Campbell, Leo	Miller, Robert G.
Carr, Henry	Montague, Robert
Corrigan, John V.	Munnely, Leo J.
Cullinane, Eugene, mh	Neil, Robert (Robin)F.
De Valk, Alphonse A.	O'Brien, William H.
D'Souza, Mario	O'Donnell, Joseph L.
Finn, Robert W.	O'Halloran, Robert T.
Gallagher, John (Jack)	Paré, Ulysse E. (Bud)
Glavin, B.F.	Penny, Joseph, G.
Griffin, Ronald J.	Pilecki, Gerard A.
Hanrahan, T. James	Quinlan, Leonard C.
Heidt, Ed	Quinn, Joseph A.
Hetzler, Leo A.	Regan, W. Oscar
Hogan, Brian F.	Rennick, Paul
Kelly, James J.	Rush, E. Leonard
Kelly, Neil	Smith, Allan
Kennedy, Leonard A.	Smith, George
Kirley, Kevin J.	Stokes, Thomas J.
Lebel, Eugene C.	Sullivan, Basil
Macdonald, D. Gordon	Swan, Peter J.M.
Mallon, J. Paul	Vander Zanden, George
	Zorzi, Dan

One of STM's founders Fr. Henry Carr, C.S.B. said "perhaps the greatest duty laid upon each generation is to preserve intact the great heritage it has received, to develop and expand it and to transmit it to the generation that follows." As an educator, Fr. Carr was known to be thought provoking. As a leader in the administration and development of Catholic post-secondary education in Canada, Fr Carr was a visionary.